Mayor Taylor Opens with Address of Welcome, and Many Speeches Are Made-Will Hold Two Sessions To-Day and Banquet To-Night.

The Retail Grocers' and General Merchants of Virginia held two sessions of their first argual convention in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday and will wind up to-day.

Prayer was offered by Rev. D. A.

Bolly and National Organizer Stevens made the opening address. Mr. W. W.

Fuiler was made temporary chairman and Mr. C. W. Price secretary. There are about fifty delegates present. There

The objects of the association were set forth by Organizer Stevens to be as fol-

"I. To oppose legislation hostile to your rests and to attempt to secure jus-

"2. To abate trade abuses and injurious and un-business-like practices, detri-mental alike to consumer and dealer. To encourage improved business methods is well as to raise the standard of food products for the welfare and health of the whole community.

"3. To harmonize and bring about re-piprocal trade relations between legiti-mate wholesaler and retailer. These two branches of the business are interde-pendent on each other. The evils which fillet one press on the other with equal lorce. They should be united for their verthrow. Victory will be certain if hese two powerful forces work in harmony. It is doubtful, more than doubtful, if they can be removed by one alone. The man who wishes you to be, or con-

BISHOP PUITER AGAIN

Christian Advocate Takes Him to Task for Position on Liquor Question.

The Christian Advocate, of this city, prints the following under the caption Bishop Potter Again:"

We have several times alluded to Bish-op Potter's utterances in regard to the saloon. Occupying the highest official position in the Protestant Episcopal Church, and at the head of the most prominent diocese in that church, what he says on any subject carries with it great weight and influence. That his atously damaged the cause of temperance in this country, there can be no doubt. Not only has it given a qualified sanc-tion to social drinking, but decided encouragement to the saloon. As an evidence of this, the liquor men have put his utterances in circular form, and scattered them broadcast as a virtual endersement of their unholy traffic.

Recently he has taken even a more decided and objectionable stand upon this subject. Not only does he denounce the carnest advocates of temperance as extremets and forestern the carnest and tremists and fanatics, but he would have the saloon open every day in the week, including the Sabbath. He would disincluding the Sabbath. He would dispense with all restrictive or prohibitory legislation in regard to the liquor traific, making it a matter of personal responsibility, and allowing liquor to be sold and drunk ad libitum. He agrees, however, that its sale might be restrained or forbidden by the vote of the people in certain municipalities or precincts.

How a high dignitary in the Church of God can take such a position in regard to the direct evil that affilets humanity one cannot understand. Of course, the one cannot understand. Of course, the liquor men will chuckle at this fresh announcement of his views, and blazon them forth through every channel at their

The Discussion at Hanover Postponed on Account of a Busy Court. (Special Dispatch to The Times.)

HANOVER, VA., October 15 .- County Court being in session the entire day here to-day, the political speaking booked to take place had to be postponed, as no other building could be had in which to hold the meeting. Captain Lamb and Mr. Jefferson Wallace were both billed to speak, and a good crowd was present.

Social and Personal

October has put on a smiling face and lent an air of brightness and gayety to the prettiest season of all the year—Indian summer. The city parks are very beautiful just now. The grass is still like a green velvet sheath under foot, and the foliage of the trees has just the sheath very parks are very leave to the state Convention to meet inviting the State Convention to meet invited t add coal to their winter's store, are flit-ting here and there among the trees and shrubs, giving life and motion to the scene. Miss Emma Bowe part of the nineteenth century, when the Capitol Square was reclaimed from the weeds and briers which covered it, when its guilles were filled and its beginning as a park was laid off with mathematical precision, where each shrub had its counterpart and every plot of flowers could look across and see its double. Fortunately for those who have since learned to love it, perhaps, somewhat of irregularity was permitted to creep in before the entire plan of park ornamentation was complete. With its overarching shade and its statues of Washington, Jackson and Clay; with its Capitol, its colonial executive mansion and its library, the Square will always be dear of the nineteenth century, colonial executive mansion and its library, the Square will always be dear to the Richmonder and attractive to the stranger even after the memorial arch shall have been erected to the ex-President of the Confederacy in Monroe Park.
